I. PRINCIPLES FOR COLLECTING BANKING COMMISSIONS AND FEES

1. The terms used in this Price List shall denote the following:
 - 1.1 Bank – Bank Millennium S.A..
 - 1.2. Outlet - Bank's outlet providing services for Account Holders.
 - 1.3 Checking account - Customer's bank account kept at the Bank
 - 1.4 Ordering party - Customer who holds checking account, hereinafter referred to as Account Holder or Customer who does not hold an account but uses Bank's services
2. The principal submitting the bank operation order shall cover all banking commissions and fees unless the agreement or order stipulates otherwise.
3. Fees and commissions specified in the Price List are charged and collected on the day on which order is placed or operation is performed, on a monthly basis or on other dates, as agreed with the account holder:
 - 3.1. The commissions and fees charged on cash operations should be collected at the time when the operation is performed.
 - 3.2. Fees for keeping current accounts in foreign currencies shall be collected from the account kept in zloty, opened earliest in the Bank or from another settlement account identified by the Client. In case of a fee for keeping an FX account charged in foreign currency from the relevant account – the Bank shall perform conversion with use of the buy rate valid on the day of charging the fee in accordance with pt. 5a),
 - 3.3. Fees and commissions charged under other titles, if they are collected from the account holder's settlement account, shall be paid with funds on this account. If there are not funds available on the account, the Bank has the authority to collect monies from another account maintained for the Account Holder or to collect monies at a later date.
4. When calculating the commission or fee due, amounts below one-half a grosz (1/100 of one Polish zloty) shall be rounded down to the nearest whole grosz, while amounts equal to, or higher than, one-half a grosz shall be rounded up to the nearest whole grosz.
5. In justified instances and while observing the rigors associated with obeying the provisions of the Currency Law, it is permissible to charge commissions and/or fees:
 - a) in a foreign currency even though the relevant rate has been stated in Polish zloty. The Polish zloty rate shall then be converted at this currency's buy rate as stated in the Bank's Foreign Currency Exchange Table in force on the day when the settlement is made with the Principal (at the buy rate for foreign exchange – if the commission amount is debited to the principal's account, at the buy rate for money – if payment is remitted in some other form),
 - b) in Polish zloty even though the relevant rate has been stated in a foreign currency (this particularly applies to the commissions and fees charged by third party banks). The foreign currency rate shall then be converted at this currency's sell rate as stated in the Bank's Foreign Currency Exchange Table in force on the day when the settlement is made with the Principal (at the sell rate for foreign exchange – if the commission amount is debited to the principal's account, at the sell rate for money – if payment is remitted in some other form).
6. The grounds for calculating the amount of the commission specified in the Fee Schedule as a percentage of the realized order shall be the Polish zloty equivalent value of the order derived by converting the order amount in a foreign currency using the foreign exchange rate (from the table or established individually) in a given transaction.

If an order is debited / credited to the principal's foreign currency account (in the currency of the order or some other one) the order's Polish zloty equivalent value shall be derived by multiplying the foreign currency value of the order by the sell rate for foreign exchange in a given currency specified in the Bank's foreign currency exchange rate Table on the day when the order is received for processing.

The same principle shall be applied to calculating the amount of the commission due on handling foreign currency orders in which the time of charging the commission is not correlated to the time of settling the amount of the order (this applies in particular to collections, documentary letter of credit and guarantees).
7. The commissions or fees charged according to the rates specified in the Price List are not subject to reimbursement except for the case in which irregularities are asserted in the application of the applied principles for computing them.

8. The Price List is not the equivalent of the Bank's offer. The Bank is not committed to selling of a product/service if that product/service is listed in the Price List.
9. Fees and commissions for activities not stipulated in the Price List shall be charged in a way agreed with the Client directly.
10. As regards the ROR Partner account in the Pakiet Partner pack, apart from fees/commissions contained in this Price List, the Price List - fees and commissions on accounts withdrawn from the offering for individuals, regarding the Premium Personal Account, shall apply.
